Her Dark Materials, an all-female group show, is on view now through September 22, 2021, via eyeofthehuntress.com. The virtual exhibition, curated by Philippa Adams under her new venture WWAM ARTS, is done in collaboration with the online exhibition series Eye of the Huntress, founded by art advisors and curators Catherine Loewe and Alexandra Ray. Set inside The Wolverton Works in Milton Keynes, a crumbling abandoned industrial warehouse digitally resurrected by the US all-female design team INVI, showcases 27 international artists including Nancy Cadogan, photographer Vinca Petersen, Seana Gavin, Emma Talbot (Max Mara Prize winner), Helen Epega, Misha Milovanovich and Charlotte Colbert (also writer of thriller She Will).

Using dark humor to subtly handle cruel realities, Her Dark Materials celebrates many facets of the human condition. From Vinca Petersen's 90's Riot Girl running through flames, to Charlotte Colbert's Mastectomy Mamera sculpture, with nipples sewn up and missing, including new works by Nancy Cadogan, and sound art by Helen Epega, the exhibition plays with something sinister.
